The 12th edition of Focus on French Cinema (FFC) offers a diverse slate of newly released feature films in the genres of psychological drama, comedy, romance, thriller, documentary, animation, family films and television, exploring the richness, rhythm, sensitivity, curiosity for contemporary topics and specific style of French Language films from around the French- speaking world. A window for French films abroad, FFC 2016 is committed to the challenging and diverse landscape of French cinema today featuring some of the most critically acclaimed and politically charged cinema of the moment. Curating from among the very best master filmmakers as well as fresh young voices, the five-day festival returns in 2016 with a “cutting edge “ selection of feature films winning a total of 15 César awards with 45 César nominations, an Oscar nomination and an award winning selection of short films with an ongoing focus on animation. In a world awash in ubiquitous streaming content, FFC has doubled its mission to present a unique and exclusive selection of films along with the possibility for our audience (5,000 in 5 days) to meet actors, directors, producers and screenwriters in person. FFC broadens our offerings in 2016 with a “Spotlight on Lebanese Cinema” and a continued commitment to the expansion of French language and culture. Celebrating 12 years of success, Focus on French Cinema 2016 presents a compelling, contemporary and challenging landscape of the French- speaking world. The Focus on French Cinema festival is organized by a team of committed volunteers and takes place at Greenwich’s Bow Tie Cinemas, The Avon Theatre Film Center in Stamford, CT and FIAF in New York.

From the Opening Night Gala celebration of “Film To Table” orchestrated by Les Maitres Cuisiniers de France, L’Academie Culinaire de France and The New England Culinary Institute to the “Spotlight on Lebanese Cinema”, Round Table Discussions and Q&A’s for movie goers with directors, actors, producers, writers, musicians, and film professionals from French speaking countries including France, Belgium, Switzerland, Lebanon, The Democratic Republic of Congo, and Canada, Focus on French Cinema is a premiere platform for discussion, debate and discovery of the French-speaking world and beyond.

This year FFC opens with the U.S. premiere of Christian Carion’s epic war drama, Come What May (En Mai, fais ce qu’il te plait), starring Olivier Gourmet, at the Bow Tie Cinemas in Greenwich, CT. Closing Night will feature The Assistant (La Volante), presented by Focus on French Cinema 2016 Honorary Guest, Nathalie Baye, at the French Institute Alliance Française (FIAF) Florence Gould Hall in Manhattan.

SPOTLIGHT ON LEBANESE CINEMA: In 2016, Focus on French Cinema (FFC) honors the cinema of Lebanon. One of the most culturally, religiously and linguistically diverse countries in the Middle East, Lebanon has produced, since the 1920's a unique selection of over 500 films. This year, FFC highlights Lebanese Cinema as the cinema of the future. "Over the last thirty years, Lebanese Cinema has acted as a commentator on the development of the sectarian conflict in Lebanon; on the normalization of war; on the reconstruction of Lebanon in the postwar period; and in the way that war still lurks in every corner of today's Lebanon. Despite borders with Syria and Israel, a Civil War (1975-1990), that destroyed the economic infrastructure and a recent flood of Syrian war refugees that places Lebanon with the highest concentration of refugees as a percentage of population in the world (over 1,000,000), Lebanese Cinema continues to confront head-on not only the ghosts of the past, but the need for a high level of self reflection and healing”. This year, as we welcome Actor, Carlos Chahine, we hope to communicate the importance of Lebanese cinema in the context of the history and the future of Lebanon. The Lebanese slate will be announced soon.

EDUCATION INITIATIVE: Focus on French Cinema (FFC) opened in a university theater in 2005 with the mission of promoting French language and culture through cinema. Over 7,500 students have participated in the festival over the past 11 years. As FFC continues to advance into the next decade, the festival continues to expand its educational outreach program with screenings in 2016 for over 1,500 middle school, high school and university students. The educational initiative for FFC offers students of all ages the opportunity to explore French and Francophone cultures through workshops with our “guests”, internships, a “Be A Film Critic Contest”, and master classes, continuing to broaden their education and cultivate the next generation of cinéphiles. Multiple screenings throughout the metropolitan this year will be highlighted by the U.S. Premiere of Tomorrow (Demain) at the United Nations in Manhattan and at our Friday, April 5 “ Educational Screening”

OUR PARTNERS:

The Alliance Française of Greenwich, CT

My Golden Days is the story of Paul Dédalus, an anthropologist preparing to leave Tajikistan ((played in his middle age by Mathieu Amalric). Reflecting on his life, he has a series of flashbacks starting from his childhood in Roubaix--his mother's attacks of madness, his fathers alienating depression. He remembers a student trip to the USSR, where a clandestine mission led him to offer up his own identity for a young Russian, whom he considered a phantom twin for the remainder of his life. He remembers university life, and returning to his hometown party with his sister and her best friend, his shifting circle of friends and their casual betrayals. And most of all he remembers Esther, the beautiful, rude, haughty soul and love of his life.

Microbe is a shy child, often immersed in his drawings. Gasoil, an inventive and audacious boy, lands in his class in the middle of the school year. A close friendship immediately develops between them. As summer vacation approaches, the two friends have no desire to spend two months with their families. Making use of a lawn mower and a few planks of wood, they build their own "car" and set off on a road trip adventure through France.

In 1981, Roland- Garros Management offered Wiliam Klein the opportunity to film the French Open. The film, The French, became a mythic documentary; the story of the yellow ball and a stunning spotlight on the 80's. Almost 35 years later, In The French is a photograph of our time, of a stadium having endured major changes. In The French immortalizes the greatest tennis generation since 1981 with the Roland Garros DNA and French Open soul inherent in the cast that includes Nadal Djokovic, Federer, Murray, Psonga, Serena Williams...

Has everything really changed? The tournament atmosphere is the same, with its passion, anxiety and joy. The French Open at the Roland Garros stadium maintains its history, elegance, popularity and unique character entering the 21st century.
